A sensational dining experience that encapsulates the true spirit, sights, sounds and flavors of Japanese Izakaya.

Our Story

Hinoki unites relaxed tapas-style Asian cuisine known as Izakaya with an exclusive chef's table experience known as Omakase in a casual, fine dining atmosphere on Greenwich Avenue in Connecticut.

Both concepts are brought together under one roof and separated into distinguished seating areas. The menu features several types of Asian-inspired cuisines as sharable appetizers and main dishes. These distinctive cuisines are reimagined with an elegant twist by skilled chefs from some of the most prestigious restaurants in the world. Top-quality ingredients are sourced from the best distributors, purveyors, and markets including Tsukiji in Japan.

Hinoki

Hinoki uses three indoor dining areas that provide a modern yet sophisticated ambiance along with comfortable outdoor seating. A private event space includes a traditional sushi bar where highly skilled chefs guide guests on a one-of-a-kind epicurean journey.

“ This fall we’re excited to be supporting a really great organization that helps homeless mothers in Fairfield County. These menus are great because we can raise awareness for local causes while trying new and creative dishes.”

STEVEN CHEN Miku, GREENWICH, CT

Steven Chen moved to New York from China when he was 18 years old and has spent the last three decades working in hospitality. With such a rich restaurant experience, which he has shared with business partners, Chen was part of the passion for the restaurant design and food to create unique experiences. Chen has also launched a successful catering business and is currently working on his fourth restaurant concept, one-of-a-kind, and opening two new locations for his existing brands.

What inspired you to become a chef?
When I got here, family and food are the heart of the community. When I wanted to become a chef, once I moved to the United States and started working in the hospitality industry, I moved to New York to my wife's life and started working with my family and friends at home on business. It's an extremely rewarding industry. Then being able to provide our customers with special food and create special moments to share with family and friends. When I got here and work in a hospital environment, I found passion, passion and excitement about what we do.

When was the first time you felt inspired to be a chef?
As a young child I was inspired to be a chef and I was inspired to be a chef.

with the farmers and fishermen who are so passionate as I am about the ingredients we use in our food. I also enjoy being part of my family and friends at home on business. When you want to inspire, what is your favorite childhood memory or home or city?

When I want to inspire it's a home with my family and friends. And, our business. When I want to inspire it's a home with my family and friends. And, our business. When I want to inspire it's a home with my family and friends. And, our business.

When you get stuck for ideas, how do you find inspiration?
I find inspiration in talking with my team and others in the food/beverage and hospitality industry. My partner, Steven, is very creative with collaborations. He opens a lot of time to listening feedback from customers and we both maintain good relationships with other restaurant owners and chefs. Inspiration is really all around us. We believe in constantly using competition and to see how the industry is doing and being inspired.

When we talk about innovation, we think about right now, but there are many ways to innovate. How have you pushed the envelope in your restaurant?

I try to be innovative with the textures of each restaurant. When we have a new menu, we create a unique experience that is individual and unique. I like to study design trends and incorporate modern design into our restaurants. My partner and I don't use outside interior designers, we do a lot of things like that. We collaborate with other top chefs and restaurants that are doing great things in the industry. We partner with top restaurants in Greenwich and around the world. It's a lot of fun and we love it.
